The Perfect Pair: Hulu & Valentine’s Day

With Valentine’s Day around the corner, Hulu set out to understand how our viewers plan to spend the holiday and the role TV plays in their celebrations.

Committed to Content

- Nearly 70% of Hulu viewers would rather stay in and watch TV/movies than go out on Valentine’s Day.
- Hulu viewers plan to watch with their significant other (66%) and/or watch solo (38%) for some much needed “me-time.”

Valentine’s Day celebrations will center around:

- 64% Watching TV/movies at home
- 58% Staying in, cooking dinner
- 52% Something in-person with a valentine

Setting the Mood for Consumers and Advertisers

Valentine’s Day isn’t just for couples...it’s also the perfect time for brands and advertisers to reach consumers!

- 63% of Hulu viewers agree that they like “Valentine’s Day ads that feel relevant to me.”
- 40% of Hulu viewers agree they are more likely to be interested in purchasing a Valentine’s Day gift after seeing an ad.

Top Movies

- failure to launch
- Harry Met Sally
- Booksmart

Last year, the Young Adult/Romance genre saw a...

- +39% increase in time spent watching during February
- +17% increase in time spent watching on Valentine’s Day

For more info visit advertising.hulu.com

Source: Hulu Internal Data – Hulu Huddle, January 2021; Hulu Internal Data, Feb 2020, 3/14/20; Hulu Internal, Active Users & Minutes Watched, Feb 2020 vs. Feb 2019